PETER HARRELL

Former Sr. Director for International Economics, NSC

“ So I think ChinaTalk over the last year has really broken through.

You've been doing just a great job at elevating the debate and discussion on China by giving experts from across a wide range of backgrounds a chance to, really dig into complicated issues and to explain them in a way that senior policy makers, senior folks in the media, senior folks around Washington can actually understand.

In an era when it's so easy to just resort to talking points on China, you've really created a forum for sustained and thoughtful debate about what the American approach to China should be.”
